Out And About The Conference

3rd Bi-annual Charlotte International Cryptologic Symposium

The 3rd Biennial Cryptologic Symposium was a success by all accounts.

Speakers from around the world contributed their knowledge through presentations of their work in the field of historical cryptology, the study of codes and ciphers used in history to keep communication secret.

Attendees were treated to visual presentations and exhibits of encryption machines and devices used in the American Civil war, WWI and WWII.

Most notable was a British TYPEX machine from WWII brought by Dr. David Hatch from the National Security Agency's-Center for Cryptologic History.

Jim Oram
Crypto Director
